HISTORICAL AND PERSONAL

Our nurseries were established at Cass, Ill. (five miles south of present location), in 1856, by Albert H. Havens and Asabel B. Austin, and has remained a family business to the present.

Mr. Austin's experience in the nursery business in this locality dated from 1856 to 1905, or forty-nine years, an experience we believe never equaled by anyone else in northern Illinois.

It was the good fortune of our Mr. Alden to have worked with Mr. Austin for ten years, thus gathering the great benefit of his long record of study, experiment and observation. Mr. Alden to date has fifteen continuous years of experience of his own to draw from, and being a keen observer of plants and their habits makes him quite a source of information on his chosen work.

Our Mr. Littleford is a grandson of Albert H. Havens, and has had five years' experience, which, with preliminary study at the State Agricultural College, makes him especially fitted to care for the problems in this up-to-date nursery. This was especially proven when he passed one of the highest in a civil service examination in forestry with thirty other candidates from the east and the west.

The above goes to show that we can intelligently serve the interests of our customers in Chicago and vicinity.
